

ATLÁNTICO SUR

ROSÉ

---

A line featuring the ocean and the sea's signature on Uruguayan vineyards. Each wine is the result of selected single varietal grapes from Uruguay's varied coastal vineyards. Whether from the Atlantic Ocean or the River Plate Estuary, the grape typically grows in vineyards less than 30 km from the coast, thus benefiting from its influence. The Atlántico Sur wines show the varietal as it is shaped by maritime saline freshness. This concurrence births pure, refreshing and alluring wines. Atlantic Wines of Uruguay.

A COASTAL RIPENING

The secret of the coastal influence lies in the low temperatures during the grape ripening season in summer. The freshness of the ocean allows us to harvest the red varieties early for considerable fresh aromas and firm acidity, ideal for making pale and highly aromatic rosé wines.

A PRODUCTION PROCESS ADAPTED TO THE VARIETAL

Since the 2021 vintage, Atlántico Sur Rosé is made up of Pinot Noir, Tannat and Marselan. Each variety is gently pressed and fermented separately and then blended according to the percentages defined by the Familia Deicas Tasting Committee led by Santiago Deicas.

A PURE AND FRESH EXPRESSION WITH THE CONTRIBUTION OF EACH VARIETAL

The Marselan grape provides incredible violet-blue nuances that develop a unique and avant-garde pink color with lilac reflections in this blend.

The nose presents floral notes, red fruits (strawberry, cherry, raspberry) and citrus (lemon and grapefruit).

This wine stands out on the palate for its freshness and sweet notes of vanilla, its unctuous volume and a very elegant expression of salinity on the finish.
